

8 ILLUMINATING OUTDOOR LIGHTING IDEAS TO MAKE YOUR GARDEN GLOW

Just because the sun has gone in, doesn't mean you have to stop enjoying your garden

6. ADD AMBIENCE WITH GARDEN CANDLE LANTERNS

One of the best garden light options are candles and not just candlesticks on the garden table. Make garden illumination more creative by experimenting with alternative candle vessels from galvanised lanterns placed on the floor with white pillar candles inside to smaller ones hung from shepherd's hooks in the lawn. American interior designer Monica Wilcox is a big fan of mason jars as tea light holders. "You can string them along a tree line or use them as a focal point to highlight a sitting area you have created." She also suggests upping the ante on the flame by pitching torches around your garden: "A Tiki Torch Display is so awesome and so doable! You can actually just place them around your backyard, they really add an air of relaxation and warmth to any space."
